

Concluding remarks

Larisa Goncharenko,
CEDAR Science Steering Committee Chair

CEDAR 2022 in numbers

- Total participants:
275 in-person + 52 virtual = 327
- Students: 96
 - Supported by NSF: 65
- Countries: 20

Student lunch, Monday, June 20

Many thanks to all
members of the
science steering
committee!!!

First in-person meeting of CSSC since 2019

Many thanks to all
members of the
science steering
committee!!!

I served for a year at CSSC and all I got is a free dinner

First in-person meeting of CSSC since 2019

CEDAR Science Steering Committee Activities: 2021-2022

- 4 Decadal Survey workshops
- Regular DEI Happy Hours
- New CEDAR website
- DYNAMIC mission support letter
- GDC mission support letter
- Townhall on the Future of Ground-Based Instrumentation
- Planning for CEDAR 2022 started in June 2021

Steering committee zoom meeting, fall 2021

Many thanks to our incredible student representatives

Meghan LeMay,
Boston University

Zishun Qiao,
Embry-Riddle Aeronautical
University

CSSC members who completed 3-year term

Asti Bhatt,
SRI

Julio Urbina,
Penn State
University

Jens Oberheide,
Clemson University

Mack Jones Jr.,
NRL

Mission accomplished – CEDAR 2022 is a success!

New CSSC members

Katelynn Greer,
U Colorado Boulder, LASP

Titus Yuan,
Utah State
University

Andrew Pepper,
Clemson University,
Student representative

Many thanks for making CEDAR 2022 a huge success!

- Astrid Maute – for keeping everything organized
- Michelle Cambridge and CPAESS team – for finding us Austin location and working on meeting logistics
- Audio and video technical team – for your professionalism
- National Science Foundation – for funding this meeting

Final action items

- Consider expressing your support for GDC mission
 - GDC endorsement letter will be sent to NASA this evening
- Attend final workshops at 10:00-12:00
- Conveners: write workshop summary and post it online
- Write Decadal Survey white paper draft on your flight back home
- See you at CEDAR 2023 (location TBD)!

